

Can You ship lithium ion batteries internationally?

Whether shipments are international or domestic, it's best to check with the air carrier for any additional requirements. When it comes to international shipping of lithium-ion batteries, ocean freight is the primary mode of transportation.

What are the requirements for shipping lithium-ion batteries by sea?

Container Requirements: Containers used for shipping lithium-ion batteries by sea must meet specific IMDG Code regulations. These regulations may include requirements for proper ventilation, fire-resistant lining, and segregation from incompatible cargo to minimize risks during transport.

What types of batteries can I mail or ship internationally?

There are many types of batteries that have different requirements when you wish to mail or ship them internationally: Wet batteries, also known as flooded lead-acid batteries, are commonly found in vehicles and backup power systems.

Are lithium ion batteries safe to ship?

Mishandling, improper packaging or storage can result in severe chemical and electrical hazards. Therefore, an in-depth understanding surrounding the specifics of safe shipping is critical. Chemical composition: Lithium-ion batteries contain a mix of highly reactive materials.

How do I ship a lithium ion battery?

This includes individually packaging each battery and placing them in a secondary outer packaging designed to prevent short circuits. All lithium-ion cells and batteries (UN 3480 only) must be shipped at a state of charge (SoC) not exceeding 30% of their rated capacity.

Can lithium ion batteries be shipped bulk?

For standalone lithium-ion batteries, bulk shipment via cargo aircraft is possible, but they must be packed in an approved manner to prevent short circuits. This includes individually packaging each battery and placing them in a secondary outer packaging designed to prevent short circuits.

If my bike battery were to malfunction and start a fire, that would be very bad for my home. Although the risk of a modern E-bike battery catching fire is low, I prefer to go by the phrase "better to be safe than sorry". I searched online for a lithium-ion battery storage bag that could contain a battery fire, should the bike battery malfunction.
