

Could xerotech's Hibernium battery system be used in construction equipment?

Technology company Xerotech has launched a modular battery platform, which could potentially be used across an entire range of electrically-powered construction equipment. Combining seven variants of modules with a choice of battery cell chemistry, the Hibernium system can range in power from 15kWh up to 300kWh, rising in 5kWh increments.

What is xerotech patented technology?

Xerotech's patented technology represents a major shift in the safety and performance of battery systems. battery packs are among the most flexible and configurable systems in the market today. Among the most flexible and configurable systems In the market today.

Does xerotech offer electrification of heavy-duty machinery?

The electrification of heavy-duty machinery becomes available to every OEM and Integrator. Xerotech's patented technology, Xerotherm™, is a game changer in battery system safety and performance, with a world-leading solution powering our thermal management and safety technology.

Who makes xerotech batteries?

That challenge is what battery manufacturer Xerotech aims to solve. Based in Claregalway, in Ireland, it was founded by CEO Dr Barry Flannery in 2015, and the company now supplies packs to many off-highway EV OEMs.

What is xerotech Hibernium™?

Xerotech's patented technology, Hibernium™, represents a complete step-change in the safety and performance of battery systems. With our Hibernium™ battery system platform designed for off-highway vehicle OEMs. There's an industrial revolution taking place right now, as off-highway OEMs race to electrify their products.

Are xerotech batteries undergoing public trials?

Currently, Xerotech batteries are undergoing public trials within European mining and construction operations. This summer, the company says further trials will take place on battery-powered loaders, drilling jumbos and shotcrete spraying equipment.

Hydraulic systems in excavators are also unable to provide energy regeneration when the boom is lowered, another drawback that would help the battery run longer. Before engaging Xerotech's services, Advanced Control stripped down the machine to install their drive system and a motor for each axis, replacing the hydraulic system for the ...
