What is a deep blue solar panel?

The Deep Blue 3.0 range is the latest generation of panels from JA Solar. First launched in mid-2020 and built using the 182mm P-type PERC cells, the Deep Blue series offers a good combination of performance and reliability backed by a respectable 12-year product warranty and extended 30-year performance warranty.

What is the Next Generation Deep Blue 4.0x series?

The next generation Deep Blue 4.0X series, due in late 2022, will utilise cells made using the higher performance N-type silicon substrate described below. The Deep Blue 3.0 range is the latest generation of panels from JA Solar.

Is deep blue a good brand?

First launched in mid-2020 and built using the 182mm P-type PERC cells, the Deep Blue series offers a good combination of performance and reliability backed by a respectable 12-year product warranty and extended 30-year performance warranty. The third generation Deep Blue 3.0 series incorporates more advanced 182mm Gallium-doped silicon wafers.

What are bifacial solar panels?

Bifacial solar panels are becoming increasingly popular on large-scale solar farms and commercial rooftops. Bifacial cells absorb light from both sides and in the right conditions can produce close to 30% more energy than traditional monofacial panels.

What bifacial panels does JA Solar use?

JA Solar produces bifacial panels using a combination of PERC, half-cut and MBB, cells housed in a dual-glass frame. Bifacial panels perform best installed on elevated frame systems mounted over light-coloured surfaces.
