In August 2021, Finnish wave energy company AW-Energy refloated the first commercially-ready WaveRoller wave energy device after two years of constant operation on the seabed offshore Portugal.

1 ¿? Deploying innovative solutions and advancing transmission systems across the country are essential to building out a better grid that achieves the U.S. Department of Energy's (DOE) goals to meet the growing demand for electricity and provide clean, reliable, secure, and resilient power to all Americans, with emphasis on Tribal nations, rural and remote communities, ...

At COP28 last week, 11 countries joined a global consortium aimed at securing 5GW of battery energy storage deployments in low or middle-income countries. The Battery Energy Storage System Consortium (BESS Consortium) was launched by the Global Energy Alliance for People and Planet (GEAPP) in April this year, with the backing of the Global ...

This is only a start: McKinsey modeling for the study suggests that by 2040, LDES has the potential to deploy 1.5 to 2.5 terawatts (TW) of power capacity--or eight to 15 times the total energy-storage capacity deployed today--globally. Likewise, it could deploy 85 to 140 terawatt-hours (TWh) of energy capacity by 2040 and store up to 10 ...

Although Andorra is very dependent on the outside world in terms of energy, its electricity market is quite competitive. With lower special taxes on electricity, quite solvent and committed legal entities and with smart agreements with its suppliers, the Principality manages to protect its citizens from said dependence in an agile way and offer ...

If all you extrapolate is the past two decades of energy deployment in rich countries, the energy transition looks pretty tough. But electrification's core technologies (batteries/EVs, solar, and wind) are just starting to hit the right price levels for mass deployment. The technology is arriving. The question is: will we be bold enough to ...
