The Carrollton Nike Missile Battery, N-75, was operational by 1954 and was one of eight bases that made up the Norfolk Defense Area. As with all continental bases, it consisted of two areas: a launch area and a control area. These two sites were connected by an underground cable system that enabled them to communicate.

The Isle of Man's fight against sudden cardiac arrest has stepped up a notch with the launch of an online map showing the location of defibrillators. The interactive mapping system has been developed in partnership between Manx Care, Craig's Heartstrong Foundation, St John Ambulance IOM, Rushen Emergency Ambulance and the Manx Heart Foundation.

2. Coastal erosion. With rising sea levels and stronger storm surges, coastal erosion is becoming a pressing concern. Iconic landmarks, historical sites, and communities along the British coast are at risk of disappearing due to the encroaching sea, such as the dramatic scenes in Norfolk in November 2023, where a 200-metre stretch of road collapsed into the sea after high tides and ...

Noble's hospital provides a dedicated 24-hour Emergency Department service for people who live or are visiting the Isle of Man. All patients are assessed by a nurse using the triage system and will then be seen by clinical priority. Understandably, the more serious injuries or illnesses are treated first. See video below for more detail.
