In January 2023, ESI commissioned the first ESS iron flow battery in Australia at the National Battery Testing Centre at the Queensland University of Technology. In August last year, ESI and Stanwell Corporation signed a memorandum of understanding to pilot a 1 MW/10 MWh iron flow battery system.

ESI has licensed the flow battery technology, claimed to be non-toxic, non-flammable and suitable for applications requiring up to 14-hour duration, from US technology company and IP holder ESS Inc. The long-duration energy storage (LDES) factory is planned to have an initial 200MW/1,600MWh annual production capacity when it comes online in ...

Data-driven Battery Management Systems (BMS) models become inaccurate over time due to degeneration and environmental changes. Physics-based BMS models are often too slow to provide useful real-time information. Alone, each have their issues; together they create a BMS model with huge potential gains. Hybrid Twin(TM) combines both models to ...
