Is installing solar panels illegal in any state?

Technically, no state outlaws or bans solar panels; quite the opposite. Most states have solar access laws that forbid any agreement, covenant, condition, bylaw, or contract that outlaws or limits solar installations by Homeowners Associations (HOA) or other municipal bodies.

Are solar panels legal?

In fact, the government has been supporting solar panels by providing support and financial incentives. Certain homeowners associations (HOAs) prohibit solar panel installations, but these are generally illegal and unenforceable. Generally, you may assume that solar panel installations are acceptable, even encouraged by the government.

Do you need a license to install rooftop solar panels?

Some states, like Colorado and Idaho, allow homeowners to perform electrical work on their own homes without a license, but in most cases a permit is still required to install rooftop solar panels.

With that being said, unpermitted systems are illegal to operate in many American jurisdictions, even in states with solar access laws. What is the difference between solar access laws and solar easement laws?

Can HOAs ban solar panels?

In short, HOAs cannot ban installations of any solar energy device. Still, they may regulate it on aspects such as approving only certain types of solar energy devices, providing maintenance, and requiring homeowners to apply for approval before installing solar panels.

Can you put solar panels on a old roof?

If your roof is old, the answer is no--at least not until you replace it. Asphalt shingles that are 10 years old or more should be replaced before adding a solar array on top, says Ana Almerini, a spokesperson for SolarReviews. New solar panels are warranted to last, on average, 25 years, while most roofs are warranted for 30 years or less.
