What do we expect in the energy storage industry this year?

This report highlights the most noteworthy developments we expect in the energy storage industry this year.

Prices: Both lithium-ion battery pack and energy storage system prices are expected to fall again in 2024.

Which energy storage technologies are included in the 2020 cost and performance assessment?

The 2020 Cost and Performance Assessment provided installed costs for six energy storage technologies: lithium-ion (Li-ion) batteries, lead-acid batteries, vanadium redox flow batteries, pumped storage hydro, compressed-air energy storage, and hydrogen energy storage.

Will electricity storage capacity grow by 2030?

With growing demand for electricity storage from stationary and mobile applications, the total stock of electricity storage capacity in energy terms will need to grow from an estimated 4.67 terawatt-hours (TWh) in 2017 to 11.89-15.72 TWh (155-227% higher than in 2017) if the share of renewable energy in the energy system is to be doubled by 2030.

Are lower prices good for EVs and stationary storage markets?

Markets: Lower prices are good for EVs and stationary storage markets. Stationary storage additions should reach another record, at 57 gigawatts (136 gigawatt-hours) in 2024, up 40% relative to 2023 in gigawatt terms.

How many TWh of electricity storage are there?

Today, an estimated 4.67 TWh of electricity storage exists. This number remains highly uncertain, however, given the lack of comprehensive statistics for renewable energy storage capacity in energy rather than power terms.

How many gigawatts will stationary storage add in 2024?

Stationary storage additions should reach another record, at 57 gigawatts (136 gigawatt-hours) in 2024, up 40% relative to 2023 in gigawatt terms. We expect stationary storage project durations to grow as use-cases evolve to deliver more energy, and more homes to add batteries to their new solar installations.
