What is happening in Nigeria's oil industry?

Over the past year, a new phenomenon has been happening quietly in Nigeria's oil industry: the exodus of international oil companies from all or parts of their operations in the country.

Is Nigeria's biggest industrialist yet to reach an agreement with NNPC?

But the fact the first cargo came from Shell and not from the state-owned NNPC will increase speculation that Dangote, Nigeria's biggest industrialist, is yet to reach an agreement with the state oil company. NNPC owns 20 per cent of the refinery following a $2.76bn acquisition in 2021.

Why are Nigerian oil majors divesting from onshore?

Oil majors in Nigeria are divesting from onshore to focus on offshore drilling due to increasing insecurity and oil theft, which have led to a decline in production and caused Nigeria to lose its status as Africa's top oil producer. The Reuters Power Up newsletter provides everything you need to know about the global energy industry. Sign up here.

Why did Nigeria start drilling for oil & gas?

ABUJA, Nov 22 (Reuters) - Nigeria's state-owned NNPC Ltd on Tuesday started drilling for oil and gas at a field in northern Nigeria that has reserves of 1 billion barrels, as the country seeks to produce crude outside the Niger Delta for the first time.

How much oil does Nigeria produce a day?

In April, the country produced less than 1mn barrel of oil daily, far below its 1.8mn bpd Opec quota. So, even though oil prices spiked in 2022, due to Russia's invasion of Ukraine, the longer-term story of Nigeria's energy industry has been one of lost opportunity.

Does NNPC want a bigger stake in Nigeria's oil refinery?

The story -- as it goes in Nigeria, according to bankers and analysts -- is that NNPC would like a bigger stake in the refinery and that for the first time since the country's return to democracy in 1999, the 66-year-old Dangote is not exactly in the good graces of the government of the day.

Dermen used his company Noil Energy Group to conspire with the Kingston family to corrupt the biofuel tax credit program in an effort to steal over $1 Billion from tax payers and launder the proceeds of this fraud," said Don Fort, Chief of IRS Criminal Investigation.
