

This concept, also called "cloud battery" or "Battery on the Cloud", is distinguished by its use of the electrical network as storage space. How does a virtual battery work? When a solar system produces more energy than needed, the excess is transferred to the public grid through a contract with an energy supplier.

To address this - and also minimise electricity charges - customers have historically sought options to feed back or have invested in a physical battery storage system. Ecocorp Solar's new virtual battery service finally provides an ...

The 300MW/450MWh battery energy storage system (BESS), which previously received three separate revenue streams for different applications, will now receive the virtual battery agreement. These deals often enable large electricity users or retailers to mimic a grid-scale battery without owning one.

The virtual batteries are discharged in accordance with the resource usage of their virtual machine, simulating the battery's behavior in the process. VESS can serve as battery resource containers thanks to this ...

Tesla battery storage at Neoen's Bulgana Green Power Hub in Victoria, Australia. Image: Elgar Middleton. Neoen has been contracted by major energy generator-retailer AGL to provide a "virtual" charge or discharge of a battery system in Australia. The France-headquartered renewable energy and energy storage developer announced the deal today.

Energy storage developer and operator Enfinite has put the final three BESS projects, totalling 60MW, of a nine-project portfolio into operation in Alberta, Canada. The Alberta-headquartered company announced the commercial operation of the eReserve7, eReserve8, and eReserve9 battery energy storage system (BESS) projects today (6 February).

Neoen, AGL's first virtual battery agreement. Readers of Energy-Storage.news will be aware that this is the second agreement the two companies signed, the first formalising in 2022. The initial agreement pertained to 70MW/140MWh power and energy from the 100MW/200MWh Capital Battery project located in the Australian Capital Territory (ACT).
