With that being said, unpermitted systems are illegal to operate in many American jurisdictions, even in states with solar access laws. What is the difference between solar access laws and solar easement laws?

Are solar panels a viable option?

However, some states still make installing solar panels functionally impossible by creating laws with "reasonable restrictions," such as increased taxing, energy caps, or even billing solar panel users. Combine these laws with a lack of incentive programs, and solar panels are not viable for homeowners in many states.

Can a HOA prohibit a solar panel system?

Solar access laws are generally found in state statutes and ensure that HOAs cannot strictly prohibit solar panel systems in their subdivision. On the other hand, they often permit HOAs to impose "reasonable restrictions" on the system. Permitted HOA limitations might include:

Does Pennsylvania have solar access laws?

Pennsylvania does not have any solar access laws. Although Rhode Island residents can create solar easements, there are no statewide solar access laws that HOAs must follow. There are no solar access laws that restrict HOA power in South Carolina. South Dakotans can establish solar easements, but there are not any access laws in place statewide.

How do HOAs protect homeowners rights to use solar power?
